HiringThing Provides Software and Solution Providers the Capability to Embed Talent Solutions Into Their Own Offerings

10/5/23–Bartonsville, PA—HiringThing, the premier private label recruiting platform, is announcing the launch of their second product, Employee Onboarding. The software will be showcased, along with their award-winning applicant tracking system platform, at the 2023 HR Technology Conference & Expo, the world's leading event on HR innovation, in Las Vegas from October 10-13, 2023.

“We’ve long been advocates of helping other HR tech platforms become multiproduct or expand their solution through our white and private label recruiting platform,” says HiringThing’s Product Director, Colette Luke. “Now our platform is multiproduct itself, which will continue helping current and future partners grow their businesses through the delivery of exceptional recruiting and onboarding software.”

As the premier private label applicant tracking system on the market, HiringThing delivers Hiring Happiness® by empowering their partners to offer best-in-class proprietary recruiting solutions. The relationship enables their partners to drive revenue, expand into new markets, and make their business more competitive.

HiringThing’s Employee Onboarding software will enable their partner’s end users to welcome new hires with consistent onboarding workflows, streamlined digital paperwork, and compliance management tools.

“We’ve had great success with our private label recruiting solution,” says HiringThing founder and CEO Joshua Siler. “Employee onboarding is a natural extension. This evolution will allow our partners to provide their clients with holistic hiring solutions and reap the benefits.”

HiringThing will present their talent platform at the HR Technology Conference & Expo in booth #833 and be on hand to answer questions, offer insights, and discuss their new product.
