Quotes

“We have been walking this path for generations, guided by the strength of our ancestors and the clarity of Tsqéscenémc mandate since creation. Our work is rooted in the laws and teachings that have always defined who we are as Secwépemc. It is not just about governance or jurisdiction—it is about living our values, honouring our responsibilities, and ensuring the health and well-being of our stsmémelt (children), tutuwíwt (youth), and kweskwséltkten (families). We journey—not toward something new, but toward the continued fulfillment of our sacred responsibilities. Together, we walk with purpose, ensuring our future generations grow in strength, identity, and connection.”

Kukpi7 Helen Henderson Chief Tsqéscen First Nation

“Congratulations to Tsq̓ésceñ First Nation on the enactment of their child and family services law, T’kwenm7íple7tens re Kíkwe. Indigenous children deserve to remain connected to their families and communities. This legislation honours all Tsq̓ésceñ children and their families whose well-being is inextricably tied to the future of the nation. We look forward to continuing this partnership and concluding a coordination agreement in the near future. This milestone is an important step towards self-government, and for children’s futures.”

The Honourable Patty Hajdu

Minister of Indigenous Services and Minister responsible for FedNor Government of Canada

“This agreement upholds Tsq̓ésceñ First Nation’s inherent rights and is a significant step on their jurisdiction journey as they continue working on behalf of the safety and wellness of their children and youth. Reaching this milestone in under a year highlights Tsq̓ésceñ First Nation’s commitment to make sure their children and youth thrive in community, close to family, within their culture, and based on their own laws.”
