SAN FRANCISCO, CA, June 29, 2017 —According to Hot Rate® Hotel data from Hotwire®, there are great deals to be had this season for summer travelers looking to get away. With the first week of September looking like the most affordable time to travel,¹ vacationers can take advantage of the three day weekend and plan some exciting Labor Day adventures. Whether you are craving a sunny escape or a wooded bungalow this summer, Hotwire’s seasonal sales and special offers will make traveling an affordable option for anyone looking for a little R&R.

Read on for more insights in this issue of the Hotwire® Travel Inspiration Indicator, a quarterly guide for media that includes travel trends, deals, and inspiration for summer trip takers.

Overall Inspiration Rating

84+
Inspiration Index

For summer 2017’s Inspiration Indicator, Hotwire surveyed “travel-ready” Americans to get a sense for their travel inspiration over the next three months, and for the first time, are announcing a travel Inspiration Index. Of the people surveyed, 96% plan to go somewhere for fun in the next three months, and more than one fifth are ready and motivated to drop everything and take a spontaneous vacation. Plus, 9 out of 10 said the next three months are a great time to get away (89%), and that they already know where their next trip will take them. The vast majority (95%) agree that traveling is a great way to relax, rewind, and bond with friends and family. Plus, we heard a resounding “I need a vacation!”

As such, the Hotwire travel Inspiration Index for the summer months tops out at a whopping 84, with over half of our respondents (53%) scoring an 80 or higher.

If that doesn’t leave you with a case of wanderlust, there’s more. In the survey, 35% of respondents are inspired by seeing new places and experiencing new cultures, and 28% just want to unplug and unwind no matter where they are. Turns out you can have it all! Not only that, but these savvy travelers know there’s great deals to be had if you know where to look (84%) and that technology makes it super easy to book travel (87%). However, among this “ready to go” group, 28% say that cost is a barrier to traveling more. And that’s where Hotwire comes in. With everything you need to plan and book an amazing getaway from your computer or mobile device, Hotwire offers travelers great deals of up to 60% off hotels and cars everywhere from the top cities and tourist destinations to hidden gems that are a bit off the beaten path. Summer is here. Where are you going?

Tips and tricks from Hotwire on how consumers can get the most value for their travel dollars

Hot tips on car
- Rent or fly Hot Rate®! Hot Rate car has great deals from major car rental agencies that are all located in the main airport rental car center, for up to 60% off! Look for cars tagged with the Hot Rate symbol when searching on Hotwire for best savings.
- If your destination is off the beaten path, consider going to the closest airport – often rental fleets are much larger at the airport so better deals can be found – and be sure to tell the agent if you’re a local to save on airport fees.
- It may seem obvious, but if you are going to do a lot of driving you can get great deals on larger, premium cars. It’s worth booking on Hotwire, or even asking at the counter of the rental car agency.
- Renting a car for a weekend trip instead of taking a taxi or ride-sharing service from the airport can be a more cost-effective means of exploring the destination.

Hot tips on air
- Many airlines launch sales on Monday afternoons – we recommend booking air on Tuesday afternoons when competing airlines respond by lowering their prices.
- Buy your plane ticket first – this unlocks super car and hotel deals.
- Did you know that most flights get cancelled due to weather as aircraft can’t come in? So you are much less likely to have your flight cancelled if you travel early in the morning. For your summer travel, instead of traveling the night before, wait and leave early the next morning.
- A weekend is a great time to visit or stay in some of the nation’s great business cities such as Houston, Dallas, Oklahoma City, Atlanta, Seattle and Los Angeles – often the savings from flying Sunday over Friday will pay for your hotel and car.
- Check alternative airports if you’re flying into a busy metropolitan area. For example, fly into LaGuardia or Newark if you’re going to New York City, and try Burbank or Long Beach if you’re traveling to Los Angeles.
- Be flexible and focus on the type of vacation you want (beach, city, etc.), then search a variety of locales based on the type to find the best deals.
More insights about U.S. travel this season

Here are some additional trends that will impact travel this summer.

- Vacationers are heading to the beach. According to a survey done by AAA, 42% of Americans are planning to take a vacation in 2017, with most planning trips to the warm weather destinations in the U.S. and abroad. Approximately 30% of U.S. adults say they are more likely to take a vacation this year compared to 2016, and they’re looking for a new kind of travel experience. Of the popular beach destinations, AAA has seen the most notable increases in travel bookings to Melbourne, Sydney, Toronto, Vancouver and Cancun.

- There has never been a more accessible time to travel (according to the Huffington Post) with airlines adding over 10,000 new routes with 37,000 city pairs in addition to the now 1,280 international airports serving 48,977 routes worldwide.

Hot tips on hotel

- Book last-minute. Although it’s common practice to book in advance, you can often find the best rates one week before your travel dates.

- Even in abnormally busy markets like Boston, travelers can still find deals by searching alternate dates. Go Saturday to Monday instead of Friday to Sunday.

- Sundays are typically the least expensive day of the week for hotel rooms. Include a Sunday as part of your stay and save on lodging costs.
